Commenting on the achievement, Kostas Anagnostakis, Niometrics' founder and CEO, said:

"These are very gratifying results. They provide evidence that our pursuit of client impact has kept us in a successful path, underscoring the strong partnerships we have formed across the APAC region.

We are also proud of being a fast-growth company in a country like Singapore, where 80 out of the world's top 100 tech firms have operations and which ranks number 6 in the 2019 Bloomberg Innovation Index, just ahead of Japan and the U.S.

This achievement validates our commitment to engineering excellence. It gives us the incentive to continue advancing network analytics technologies that make sense of digital moments without compromising individual trust."
